Hope
 presume

*And now I speak of thanking God, I do so with all humility, acknowledging that it was the merciful happiness of my past life to be kind providence which had made the means of such and gave them success.
 My belief of the inducer me to hope through ~~hope~~ I must not presume, that the same goodness will still be exercised towards me in continuing that happiness or enabling me to do a better service, which I may experience as there have done, the completion of my future portion being thanks to the only in whose power it is to bless us with afflictions. — Franklin's Autobiography.

* "And now I speak of thanking God. I desire with all humility to acknowledge that I owe the mentioned happiness of my past life to His kind providence, which lead me to the means I used and gave them success. My belief of this induces me to hope, though I ~~presume~~ I must not presume, that the same goodness will still be exercised towards me, in continuing that happiness, or enabling me to bear a fatal reverse, which I may experience as others have done; the complexion of my future fortune being known to Him only in whose power it is to bless to us even our afflictions." — Franklin's Autobiography.
