

Handwritten Japanese text in a grid format, likely a ledger or account book. The text is densely packed and spans across the grid lines. It includes various characters and symbols, possibly representing numbers and names. The writing is in cursive style.
