SPENCERIAN[™]
Double Elastic
STEEL PENS

We Claim Superiority for these Pens on the following grounds:

- First, Durability and Perfection of Action, owing to the great care used in their manufacture by skilled workmen of tried experience, and to the peculiar process of Carbonizing which gives to the points a more perfect degree of hardness than can be found in the generality of steel pens.
- Second, They are endorsed, and, what is more, constantly used, by all the best teachers of penmanship in this country.
- Third, Used exclusively in all the first-class Commercial Colleges of the United States and Canadas.
- Fourth, Used by cashiers, book-keepers, tellers, etc., in the principal Banking-Houses from the Atlantic to the Pacific.
- Fifth, Thousands of the pens are annually used by government officials in the several departments at Washington, and by the majority of Custom-House officers throughout the States.
- Sixth, Their reputation is so firmly established that every first-class dealer in Stationery keeps them for sale.
- Seventh, One of the strongest proofs of their great popularity, and undeniable confession to their superiority, is that no less than ten firms have manufactured, or caused to be made, pens similar in style under different names, for which they claim the same qualities and favor as the still unapproached SPENCERIAN.

[OVER.]

Our new Illustrated Catalogue, descriptive of the American Educational Series, comprising the titles of nearly three hundred works in almost every branch of educational literature, will be mailed free to any address, or presented gratuitously on application. Teachers and school officers will find it very valuable for reference, giving as it does a fuller description of each of our publications than can be found elsewhere.

We also publish "THE EDUCATIONAL REPORTER,"—a handsomely printed journal of sixteen pages, which contains, besides notices of our own publications, a carefully prepared summary of current educational news, both home and foreign. This we supply free to teachers and others interested or engaged in educational pursuits.
