Handwritten Japanese text in cursive (sōsho) style, written on aged paper. The text is arranged in approximately 15 vertical columns, reading from right to left. The characters are highly stylized and fluid, characteristic of the cursive script. The paper shows signs of age, including yellowing and some staining, particularly at the bottom edge.

On the right side of the page, there is a vertical column of handwritten Japanese text in cursive (sōsho) style. The text is written from right to left, starting with a large character 'O' at the top right. The characters are fluid and connected, typical of the style. The text appears to be a personal note or a signature, possibly including the name 'Oshichi' (お七) and other characters that are difficult to decipher due to the cursive nature. The paper is aged and yellowed, with some staining and a vertical crease down the center.

Handwritten text in cursive script, likely a list or account. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is oriented vertically. The characters are highly stylized and difficult to decipher, but appear to be a form of shorthand or a specific dialect of a script. The text is organized into several columns, with some lines starting with a small mark resembling a cross or a plus sign. The overall appearance is that of a historical document or a personal record.

Handwritten musical notation on a single staff, consisting of a series of rhythmic, wavy lines and vertical strokes. The notation is dense and appears to be a form of shorthand or a specific musical dialect.
