Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Persian or Urdu, spanning two pages of an open manuscript. The text is written in dark ink on aged, yellowish paper. The script is dense and continuous across both pages, with some variations in line spacing and character style. The right page contains approximately 15 lines of text, while the left page contains approximately 14 lines. The text appears to be a single, flowing passage, possibly a letter or a section of a larger work. There are some small, illegible markings or characters interspersed within the main text, particularly on the right page. The overall appearance is that of a well-preserved historical document.
