

Handwritten Japanese text in vertical columns, starting from the top left and moving right. The text is dense and appears to be a formal letter or a section of a book.

A horizontal line of small, handwritten characters, likely serving as a signature or a list of names related to the text above.

五祥年
A vertical inscription in calligraphy, with a red square seal impression below it.

Handwritten Japanese text in vertical columns, located in the lower half of the page. It continues the narrative or list from the upper section.

A horizontal line of small, handwritten characters at the bottom of the page, similar to the one in the middle section.

