

Handwritten Japanese calligraphy in cursive style (sōsho), arranged in vertical columns from right to left. The text is written on aged, yellowish paper. The characters are fluid and connected, typical of the style. The rightmost column begins with the character '山' (mountain). The leftmost column includes the characters '田' (field) and '葉' (leaves). There are some ink splatters and a large white mark near the bottom center of the page.

