

Handwritten Japanese calligraphy in cursive style (sōsho) on a light green background. The text is arranged in vertical columns, reading from right to left. The characters are fluid and expressive, typical of the cursive style. The text appears to be a poem or a short piece of prose, possibly related to the 'Manyōshū' given the context of the scroll.

