

Handwritten cursive text in Japanese, consisting of approximately 12 vertical columns of characters. The script is highly stylized and fluid, characteristic of the 'sōsho' (草書) style. The characters are densely packed and flow from right to left across the page.

Handwritten Japanese text in cursive style (sōsho), consisting of approximately 15 vertical columns of characters. The text is written on a light-colored paper strip with gold-leaf borders at the top and bottom. The characters are highly stylized and fluid, characteristic of the cursive calligraphic style. The text is arranged in a single line across the page, with each column representing a vertical line of writing. The characters are densely packed and flow together, creating a sense of continuous movement. The overall appearance is that of a traditional Japanese calligraphic work, possibly a fragment of a larger piece or a specific section of a text.
