

Handwritten Japanese calligraphy on a rectangular piece of aged paper. The text is written in a cursive style (sōsho) and is arranged in two columns. The right column contains the characters '櫻' (Sakura) and 'の' (no), while the left column contains '花' (Hana) and 'の' (no). The characters are dark and somewhat faded, with some ink bleed-through visible. The paper is mounted on a larger, plain, light-colored background.

