

Handwritten Japanese text in cursive (sōsho) style, likely a postscript or a note. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper with a blue wavy border at the top. The characters are arranged vertically from right to left. The main text reads: 何に梅と花の下はたぬ. To the right of this main text, there is a smaller signature: 山崎. At the top right, there is a small mark resembling a cross or a star, and some faint, illegible characters.
