

Handwritten Japanese text in cursive (sōsho) style, possibly a calligraphic work or a letter. The text is arranged vertically in columns, with some characters appearing to be part of a larger phrase or sentence. The paper is aged and yellowed, and the ink is dark. There are decorative elements, including a scalloped border at the top and faint floral or landscape motifs in the background.

