104H
[Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in a dark ink on aged paper. It begins with a bracketed header containing the number '104H'. The main body of text consists of several lines of dense, flowing characters. There are several instances of the number '104H' written as a marker within the text. The script is highly stylized and characteristic of early modern Japanese handwriting.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, similar to the page on the right. It also begins with a large character that looks like '女' (woman). The text is written on a page with a double-line border. The script is dense and fills most of the page. There are some markings above the text, possibly indicating pitch or rhythm. The text appears to be a continuation of the style seen on the right page.
