養老律令

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical record or a narrative. The text is written in a dense, flowing style, characteristic of Edo-period Japanese calligraphy. It appears to be a transcription of a spoken account or a formal document. The characters are small and closely packed, with some variations in line thickness and spacing, suggesting a specific dialect or a particular style of writing. The text is arranged in a single column, filling most of the page's width.
