子

Large vertical calligraphic characters, possibly a signature or a specific title. The characters are bold and expressive, with some overlapping strokes. The main characters appear to be '大' (big) and '子' (child/son), followed by more complex, less legible characters.

Small handwritten mark or character, possibly a seal or a specific notation, located at the top left of the page.
