

Handwritten Chinese text in cursive script (caoshu), consisting of approximately 15 vertical columns of characters. The text is highly stylized and difficult to decipher precisely, but appears to be a continuous passage of prose or poetry. The characters are written in black ink on aged, yellowish paper.

