Count Humma

Dear Sirs,

The advent of peace between Japan and Russia, rendered doubly secure by the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance under greatly strengthened conditions, is certain to be followed before long by a remarkable extension of industrial, commercial and financial enterprises in the Far East, necessitating the introduction of foreign and particularly of British capital.

In order to facilitate this introduction, a group of experienced men of business, having access to large sources of capital, have formed themselves into an association under the name of "The Nippon Syndicate, Limited," registered in London under the English Companies' Act, and have decided to send their General Manager, Mr. Edward Hume-Schweder, to Japan for the purpose of entering into relations with financial, commercial and industrial circles in Japan, as well as with Municipal and other Authorities, who may be desirous of obtaining the assistance of British capital.

Mr. E. Hume-Schweder will take an early opportunity of calling on you, soon after his arrival at the Imperial Hotel, Tokio. (He proposes to sail from San Francisco in the S.S. "Siberia," on the 4th November). He will be ready to afford you the fullest information as to the objects and scope of business of the Nippon Syndicate, whose Directors are:—

Chairman: Sir Vincent Caillard, Chairman of the National Bank of Egypt, Director of Vickers, Sons & Maxim, Ltd., etc.
