

Handwritten Japanese text in cursive style (sōsho). The text is written on a single sheet of paper. A red square seal is visible on the right side of the paper, approximately at the 10 cm mark on the ruler. The ink is black, and the paper shows some aging and slight discoloration. The writing is dense and fluid, typical of personal correspondence or a diary entry.

