

Handwritten cursive text on a strip of paper. The characters are written from right to left in vertical columns. The text is highly stylized and difficult to decipher without further context. A red square seal is visible on the right side of the paper.

